

PRESIDENT WILSON IS PREPARING TWO STRONG MESSAGES

One to Congress and One to the New Industrial Commission That Meets About Dec. 1st

One Aimed at the Bol-shevist Movement and one to Secure American Membership of the League

BY HUGH BAILLEE,
(United Press Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 21—President Wilson within ten days will make his supreme effort to end the inroads of the bolshevik into the American war structure and at the same time make the United States a member of the league of nations.

The President today was working vigorously on two documents which he intends shall be the most compelling of his administration. One of these is the message to congress to be delivered December 1 and the other the message to the new industrial commission called to bring about peace between labor and capital, which probably will convene here at the same time congress meets.

Wilson is writing a strong appeal to congress to take up again and ratify the peace treaty. He is preparing an argument which the administration hopes will bring about a speedy ratification. It does not, then the President is ready to see the same carried into the 1920 national election in which he will not participate beyond urging the United States to join the league, regardless of the party affiliated.

Wilson is anxious to go before congress and deliver his message in person but this is opposed by his physicians.

(By United Press)

Paris, November 21—The Hungarian government has addressed an ultimatum to the Austrian government ordering the Vienna authorities to surrender Bela Kun, former Hungarian Soviet dictator, and his accomplices, according to a Bulgarian dispatch today.

Admiral Horthy has been instructed to prepare a military measure necessary to enforce the Hungarian ultimatum. Horthy is head of the Hungarian army. The Hungarian demands will be enforced even if a declaration of war and a march toward Vienna is necessary, advises here declared.

Rejection of League Means Big Navy

(By United Press)

Akron, Ohio, Nov. 21—Rejection of the league of nations covenant by congress will be the signal for a great navy program, Secretary Daniels said in an address today.

"The United States will need a navy large enough to oppose the best navy in the world, if the league of nations is defeated," Daniels said.

Prisoners and Guards Fighting Serious Fire At N. Y. Sing Sing

(By United Press)

Ossining, N. Y., Nov. 21—Prisoners and guards at Sing Sing were fighting a serious fire which broke out in the work shop in the prison yard at 7 o'clock today.

The flames spread to three shop buildings. Cotton and raw material were stored in the shop when the fire was first seen.

The fire, believed by officials to have been of incendiary origin, destroyed three storage buildings in the Sing Sing prison. The damage is estimated at $200,000.

The main water supply to the prison was cut yesterday and the acting warden said he believed somebody took advantage of this to start the fire. A number of prisoners will be thrown out of work owing to the destruction of raw material, and officials declare this was the object sought by those who set the fire, as there was no disturbance or attempt to escape.

United States Demands Jenkins' Immediate Release

In the Most Aggressive Note Yet Sent by the State Department to Mexico

(By United Press)

Washington, Nov. 21—The immediate capitulation of the Mexican authorities on the issue created by the arrest of Wm. O. Jenkins, American consular agent at Pueblo, Texas, was expected by the state department today to put a quick end to the latest Mexican "crisis."

The United States has demanded Jenkins' immediate release in what is considered one of the most aggressive notes ever sent to Carranza.

The entire matter has been laid before President Wilson's cabinet. It was believed today that the state department's ultimatum was passed on by the President before it was dispatched to Mexico.

The note of yesterday stated that the department is in a position to give information showing that the arrest of Jenkins was absolutely arbitrary and unwarranted.

Root Argues Against War Time Prohibition

(By United Press)

Washington, Nov. 21—The Volstead act, as applied to war-time prohibition, is keeping a million dollars worth of 2 3/4 % liquor off the market, Elihu Root told the supreme court today, resuming his attack on the constitutionality of the federal liquor legislation.

Declaring this was unconstitutional, Root said, "There is no suggestion of compensation" and we hold this is taking of private property by the government without just compensation in violation of the constitution."

The court granted his request for two additional hours for argument.

Treaty May Be Issue in 1920

If Not Settled When the Presidential Contest Begins—Contest will Start with Meeting of Congress

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, Nov. 21—Ratification of the treaty today appeared to be shaping itself into the big issue of the 1920 presidential election.

If the senate fails to ratify the treaty before the 1920 fight gets under way, there will be a clear cut issue in which President Wilson may possibly again be forced to take the stump in support of the treaty issue.

President Wilson threw down the gauntlet when he wrote to Senator Hitchcock on the eve of the vote declaring that the Lodge reservations would nullify the treaty. This, according to republican senators, is what forced the entire majority party to rally around Lodge. This is the explanation of the unbroken front which Lodge put up during the battle in the final hours. It was known that the "mild reservationists" on the republican side were ready to support Hitchcock in certain compromise proposals, but when President Wilson attacked Lodge all the republicans resolved to stick by their leader although in some previous steps they had opposed him.

Indications today were that a bitter contest will start when the treaty comes up again at the next session. By its action in refusing to ratify the treaty, the senate wiped the slate clean and will have to begin over again. It will have to go to the Foreign Relations Committee first.

President Will Veto Resolution Ending the War

Plans to Prevent Official Ending of the War by Vetoing Resolution to That Effect

By HUGH BAILLEE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 21—The Lodge concurrent resolution which declared the war at an end can and will be vetoed by President Wilson in case it is passed by both the house and senate in the opinion of the high administration officials here today. They cited the constitution to prove that the President had this power.

This came evidently as a surprise to the supporters of the Lodge resolution which was introduced in congress just before it adjourned. They believed the chief executive had no power to interfere with the concurrent resolution that Lodge believed could be passed by both house and senate thus ending the war without adoption of the treaty.

The administration supporters cited Article 1, section 7, paragraph 3, of the constitution as their authority.

This paragraph, the administration, supporters contended undoubtedly gives Wilson authority to veto the Lodge resolution. The President apparently is determined to veto the Lodge proposal, confident that a two thirds vote can not be gotten in congress to pass it over his head. Thus he plans to prevent the war being officially ended until the peace treaty has been adopted.

Germany Wants Treaty Ratified

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Berlin, Germany, Nov. 20—Delayed—The refusal of the American senate to ratify the peace treaty means not only that the small nations of Europe will desert the league of nations, but that Germany will be left at the mercy of France, German government officials said today.

"It is essential that something be done at once to relieve the present confusion," high officials stated.

"What Germany wants is peace."

Cut Out the Middlemen

This is the Cry of Farm Organizations and Labor Representatives to Reduce the High Costs of Living

(By United Press)

Chicago, Nov. 21—"Cut out the middleman."

This was the slogan for war on high cost of living declared today by the joint conference of farm organizations and labor representatives here.

The conference was called by Herbert Baker, president of the Farmers National Council and D. T. Clarke, president of the National Cooperation association, to line up labor and the farmer behind the big reconstruction program of legislation to be placed before congress.

Baker sounded the keynote of the conference in his opening address.

"By holding this cooperative conference in advance of the labor conference called for December 1 in Washington," he said "the cooperative plans worked out here can be submitted to the labor conference with reasonable expectation of its receiving endorsement and adoption as the cooperative policies of all labor organizations."

Measures, which labor and farmer join action to bring down the high organizations proposed to arrange, prices, including "legislation to control the packing monopoly," "a new railroad bill to provide for two years extension of federal control of railroad lines to prevent the threatened freight rate increase and congressional action on public ownership proposals."

Pan Director Ad- mits Advertisements Were Exaggerated

(By United Press)

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 21—Statements made in advertising matter circulated by the Pan Motor company were exaggerated, N. B. Street director and one of the defendants in the trial of Pan Motor officials, admitted on the witness stand today.

"Did you believe the statement that the Pan Motor company would manufacture one hundred thousand cars each year?" he was asked by the government attorney.

"No," answered the witness.

"Do you think the booklets which you circulated contained true information or do you consider them as just advertising?" the prosecutor asked.

"I can not see that it was any different from any other advertising," answered Street.

He said he did not think it necessary to state in the advertising that Randolph was to receive 50% of the stock sales for expense of promotion.

He admitted he had no information of Pandolfo's business affairs before affiliating with him.

"I took Pandolfo's word," he said.

Chicago, Nov. 21—People in Texas who said Samuel Pandolfo, president of the Pan Motor company, on trial in federal court here today, was a "crook and a liar" have changed their minds. Judge Van Sickle, of Alpine, Texas, who wrote the letter regarding the statement declaring "people said Pandolfo was a crook and a liar," testified to this effect today. "Pandolfo has paid his bills and people whom he quoted in that letter have changed their minds. They now think he is honest," said Van Sickle.

Will Submit Counter Pro- posal Which They State Will be Ir- reducible Minimum

RALPH COUCH
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, Nov. 21—Coal operators and chiefs of 400,000 miners still on strike were expected to reach an agreement here today or tomorrow.

Miners have decided to recede from their demand for a 60% wage increase according to Secretary Green of the United Mine Workers.

"I suppose we will have to submit a counter proposal to the one the operators made yesterday," Green said. "It will be an irreducible minimum."

The proposal which the operators made late yesterday was rejected as entirely "inadequate" by the miners. It included an offer of 15c more a ton for both machine and power or check workers who now receive 72c and 84c a ton respectively. The offer included the advance of 20% for 250,000 men who are paid by the day which would have netted each $1.00 more a day.

Operators said the offer would add from 35c to 40c a ton to present retail prices. The increase in the national coal bill would be from $175,000 to $200,000 a year.

Miners' Proposal to be Made Late Today

A proposal for settlement of the coal strike will be made to the operators by the miners late today. President John Lewis of the miners union announced. Lewis refused to say what demand will be made but the miners it is understood will propose for an increase of 25c a ton or 10c more per ton than the operators offered yesterday. Lewis made his announcement just before the opening of the afternoon session of the scale committee and after a talk with Secretary of Labor Wilson.

"The situation is set upon a hair spring and may upset at any moment," said Edgar Wallace of the mining department of the A. F. of L. in discussing the strike situation.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE PROCEEDINGS GIVEN

County Superintendent of Schools
Mrs. Irma C. Hartley Spoke on
"Duties of Teacher"

THE DOMESTIC SCIENCE GIRLS

Entertain at Luncheon—Miss Gilder-meister Spoke on "Do We Pay
Our Social Debt?"

Wednesday Afternoon

The Crosby normal training girls and their teacher, Miss Augusta Dah-leen were the guests of the Brainerd normal training girls and their teacher, Miss Reed, at the home of Miss Margaret Keuhmichel, where quite an extensive luncheon was served.

The evening was spent in singing, music and porch dancing.

Thursday Morning

Teachers' Patriotic League of Crow Wing county was called to order by the Pres. J. W. Taylor.

The reports of the committees on publicity and health were read and accepted.

The lessons in geography and history preceded before the League meeting.

County Superintendent Mrs. Irma Camp Hartley addressed the Institute. Her topic was "Duties of the Teacher." Her splendid talk dropped into three clear and distinct topics:

- (a) Our Material.
- (b) Social side.
- (c) Spiritual side.

She also said the motto should be "Moderation."

Her talk closed by the reading of a poem, "A Prayer for Teachers" by Dr. Frank Crane.

Miss Nellie L. Welch, a representative of the papers, "The Pathfinder" and "The Normal Instructor and Primary Plans," addressed the Institute and made a canvass for the same.

Thursday Afternoon

Afternoon session opened by assembly singing, conducted by Miss Ruth Anderson, accompanied by Miss Hazel Keller.

Following the assembly singing,
Miss Reed the instructor of the Brainerd normal training department, addressed the Institute, speaking of the "Deaf and Dumb School" at the Whittier building, under the leadership of Miss Head, followed by a talk on the purpose and aim of the Brainerd normal.

Miss Josephine Creelman of the Minnesota University Extension Division gave a very helpful address on "Health." Miss Creelman was formerly a nurse in New York city.

About 3:30 Supt. W. C. Cobb, of the Brainerd city schools, announced that the domestic science girls desired the presence of the teachers at their room at the Washington school where coffee and rocks were served.
Everyone declared the luncheon fine.

The real feature of the afternoon was the address given by Miss Theda Gildermeister of Winona, author of the Minnesota course of study. The address was on "Do We Pay Our Social Debt?"

The closest of attention was paid and everyone received a new outlook on the social debt question.

The city teachers attended in a body.

The high school orchestra rendered a very fine selection and was heartily applauded.

Miss Kathleen Gemmell and Miss Alice Johnstone rendered a beautiful violin duet. They were accompanied by Miss Alice R. Johnson.

Miss Dahleen of the Crosby normal training department, expressed, in behalf of herself and her students, the pleasure, inspiration and lovely time they have had at the institution.

The following were visitors during the day, Supt. W. C. Cobb, Mrs. Joseph Koyiol, nee Miss Lillian Schwarzkopf, formerly a Crow Wing county teacher, Geo. Selke, state high school inspector, who will address the rural school officers Friday at the Chamber of Commerce; H. R.
Edwards, superintendent of the Crosby-Trouton schools; Mrs. W. H. Gemmell and Miss Ethel Beyer, the city and school nurse.

The Crosby normal training girls
and their instructor, Miss Dahleen, were the guests Thursday night at a theatre party given by the Brainerd normal training department.

D. T. E. SOCIAL CLUB

Entertained at the Home of Miss Beatrice Peters on Monday Evening

The members of the D. T. E. Social club were entertained at the home of Miss Beatrice Peters Monday evening.
The entertainment of the evening was something novel—a bit out of the ordinary. The guests came disabled, some in one way, some in another, and when assembled made one think that perhaps the predicted "end of the world" had come just a month sooner than prophesied.

When an old, lame, crabbed, looking doctor entered to offer his services merriment ran riot. However the guests quickly recovered from their numerous injuries when the attending physician displayed his many instruments of torture. Horrors! His kit contained everything from a saw to a butcher-knife!

During the course of the evening a business session was called by the president and matters of importance were discussed. A delicious luncheon was served by the hostess shortly after which the members departed.
At the next regular meeting the club expects to initiate several new members.

Gardner-Kamberling

Frank A. Kamberling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kamberling, of White Fish Lake, Jenkins, was married to Miss Elsie Gardner of Beardstown, Illinois at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Congdon, 307 N. 8th St.,
Brainerd at 2:30 Thursday afternoon,
November 20th.

The groom was discharged from the U. S. army in May of this year after seeing 9 months service in France. The bride who was becomingly dressed in a blue travelling suit presented an attractive appearance. The mother of the groom with Mrs. H. W. Congdon acted as witnesses to the ceremony.

The service was of a quiet home character, there being present the mother of the groom, Mr. and Mrs.
H. W. Congdon and Mr. C. N. Swart of Fargo, N. D. The Rev. Fred Errington of the First Congregational church read the ring service. A host of friends wish Mr. and Mrs. Kam-berling every good thing in their new relationship of husband and wife.

The happy couple will make their home at White Fish, 5 miles east of Jenkins, where the bridegroom conducts a summer resort.

Don't Disregard a Cold

A neglected cold may develop into most serious sickness. The influenza and pneumonia that swept the country a year ago were preceded by an epidemic of colds. Foley's Honey and Tar will check a cold if taken in time. It loosens phlegm and mucous, clears air passages, eases hoarseness, stops tickling throat. H. P. Dunn.

Almost Too Obliging.

A Scottish emigrant on his arrival at Montreal stopped for a moment to examine a coat hanging in front of a clothing store, when the proprietor asked him if he would not try on a coat, relates the Scottish American
"I dinna ken but I wad," responded the emigrant, consulting his watch; and he went in and set to work. No matter how often he found a fit, he tried on another and another till he tried on about thirty. Then again looking at his watch, he resumed his own garment and walked off, saying:
"Weel, I've lost time, nae doot, but hang the fellow that'll no' oblige anither when he can!"

Recommends it to Anyone

"My son had a cough for a long time," writes Mrs. Heck, 728 Fehr Ave., Louisville, Ky., "and he tried Foley's Honey and Tar and he slept better that night than he had for some time. It certainly is fine. I recommend it to anyone." Good for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough. Children like it. Contains

FUR NECK PIECES LET US DO YOUR REPAIR WORK

Sable, Mink, Fisher, Among Variety to Choose From.

Furriers Have Provided for Record Demand—Choker Collar Is Most Popular.

The usual fall flock of fanciful neck pieces is only beginning to put in an appearance. Perhaps this unusual reliance is merely a judicious waiting until the present rage for the small one or two animal scarfs shall have in a measure burnt itself out.

These altogether admirable little neck pieces in sable, mink, fisher or stone marten are so becoming and practical that most women faced with the choice of but one neckpiece would unhesitatingly choose this one.

But the quiet smartness of its appearance works both for and against it.
While it retains its distinction even through excessive popularity, this very unobtrusiveness of quality is a satisfying factor to the woman who yearns for and perhaps really needs for her best appearance a more pronounced type of scarf.

The furriers, realizing this need, have any number of other small neck pieces in stock, in which squirrel, beaver, Hudson seal, moleskin, krimmer, broadtail and Australian opossum are the pelts utilized.

These neck pieces have the advantage of being less expensive than the animal scarfs of costly, longer haired furs, and this is a distinct advantage when it comes to matching a muff

Snug-Fitting Beaver Collar.

and possibly a hat to the scarf in order to form the set which is so much worn with the tailored suit or dress.

The choker collar is probably the most popular of all the small fur neck pieces, and it has undeniable chic on a woman who is slim and long throated. It is buttoned with one or two fur buttons and usually has a fold of satin or velvet showing above the edge of the fur.

FIRST POST SERVICE CRUDE

That Between New York and Boston, However, Was the Beginning of Great System.

The first regular postal service between two American cities was established December 10, 1872, when the government of New York inaugurated a regular monthly post to Boston.

Some thirty-three years before that a post office had been opened in Boston at the house of Richard Fairbanks,
"for letters which are brought from beyond the seas, or are to be sent thither."

In 1857 the Virginia assembly provided for the "rapid transmission" of official communications from plantation to plantation on penalty of one hogshead of tobacco for each default.
Four years after the establishment of the New York-Boston monthly mail, the colonial court of Massachusetts founded an official postoffice in Boston, with John Heyward as postmaster.

The first parliamentary act for the establishment of a postal system in the English-American colonies was passed in 1632, and a royal patent was granted Thomas Neale, who was authorized to transport "letters at such rates" as the planters should agree to give. Neale began operations in Virginia, and the other colonies soon joined in the movement, although the system was very imperfect.

ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the sub-

WHALE BLAMED FOR DISEASE

Malady That Attacks the Lungs Is Thus Diagnosed by Prominent Danish Scientist.

The echinococcus disease (caused by a small tapeworm in the liver or lungs), which first made its appearance in Holland, is believed by Dr. Van Deinsse to be due originally to whales. The Medical Record quotes from a Dutch scientific paper some of the facts upon which Van Deinsse bases this theory.

"It is said that this affection is endemic in Iceland and that it eventually reached Friesland from that locality. Not only Friesland was attacked in the eighteenth century, but many other seaports along the North sea and English channel. The connecting link appeared to be the whale fisheries, originally a Basque industry, with headquarters at Bordeaux. In the seventeenth century the channel ports engaged in the whale-catching industry, Friesland, possibly infected from Iceland, also engaged in whaling, appeared to be a distributing point of the infection.

"Not only whales, but also seals and other Arctic fauna, were perhaps infected with echinococcus disease, which was conveyed directly to mankind when in starving seasons they ate this flesh and to dogs and cats in the same manner, the animals then serving as hosts for the parasite along with mankind. In time this maritime industry went out of use. Recollections of old whalers, however, testify to the custom of taking dogs along on whale ships, so that dogs could become infected aboard ship and menace the home dwellers."

TRACED DESCENT OF HORSE

Horses of the miocene tertiary times, and during the pliocene age, which came later, roamed around the marshes of Oregon, according to Professor Condon of the University of Oregon. A letter which the professor wrote a woman in Nashville, Ore., thirty years ago, has been discovered, in which he referred to some of his own specimens of the early horse.

"There were in Oregon three or four species of the small horse," the professor wrote. "I have fragments of many individuals of several of these species. The one of which I have the most complete skeleton was about two feet high. He lived during the miocene tertiary times.

"My fossils would not warrant me in speaking of more than three hoofs on each foot; the center one on each foot being large, and the other ones small. Each foot bone furnished him with what was an external hoof.

"Belonging to a later period, the pliocene, I have other horse remains. The older classification gives the name Hippoparion to the pliocene horse. The side hoofs of this animal were still external, and therefore, to some extent, functional. These horses multiplied in species, as well as in numbers, varying in size until the horse proper, or equus, came on the stage with only rudimentary fragments of the metatarsal bones of the side hoofs provided for."

AMERICA WILL BE POWER IN LEAGUE

PRESIDENT WILSON CAN MAKE IT SO DESPITE THE PROPOSED SENATE RESERVATIONS.

WHAT OTHER NATIONS THINK

Supporters of Plan Do Not Pretend It Will Bring Millennium, but See in It Formula for Bettering World Conditions.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—The statesmen are not unmindful of the fact that regardless of senate reservations to the treaty of peace with Germany, the president of the United States will, under the constitution, have almost unlimited powers in administering the provisions of the treaty as they affect the United States. President Wilson has more than fifteen months in office, and this period of time, it is pointed out, will afford him ample opportunity to reflect what he conceives to be the real desires of the people of this country with respect to the treaty and particularly with respect to the League of Nations. Since it is generally admitted that the League of Nations is the outcome of the work he did in Paris as the head of the United States delegation to the peace conference, everybody takes it for granted that he will, so long as he is president, do everything within his power to make the league a success.

Some of the senators express the view that Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan will not hesitate about accepting senate reservations to the treaty because they know that as soon as the treaty has passed beyond the reach of the senate it will be in friendly hands. This does not mean, so these senators say, that the European powers or Japan would expect President Wilson to disregard any of the injunctions of the senate, but it does mean, they say, that the powers mentioned undoubtedly have the feeling that President Wilson, in spite of any action taken by the senate, will be able to make the United States an important factor in the League of Nations.

Uppermost in His Mind.

There is any amount of testimony to the fact that during the weeks he has been confined to his sick bed the League of Nations has been the one topic uppermost in the president's mind. This means, so it is believed, that he will enter on the large task of dealing with the new international situation created by the formation of a League of Nations with enthusiasm. As a matter of fact the League of Nations idea has not been out of the president's mind during the last three years. His first utterance on the subject which was made at Cincinnati, three years ago, was to the effect that the countries then at war must have a society of nations "not suddenly, not by instance, not by any hostile emphasis upon the demand, but by the demonstration of the needs of the time." A little later he enlarged on the idea by declaring that "nobody can hereafter be neutral as respects the disturbance of the world's peace for an object which the world's opinion cannot sanction."

As the months went by the president laid increased emphasis on the importance of the nations of the earth binding themselves together to prevent war, and then came the opportunity to go to the peace conference and pressing his plan for such a league in detail. The most ardent supporters of the League of Nations are not saying that it will bring in the millennium. They do believe, however, that it contains a formula for bettering world conditions.

For the World's Betterment.

This formula has been briefed at the state department as follows:

Repudiation of all the ancient treaties concluded by the old regime; establishment of an effective international force; drastic all-round military and naval disarmament on a membership basis and substitution of national militias for conscript armies; abolition of private ownership in war material in all cases belonging to the league; and enforcement of this principle in Germany; maintenance and extension of existing international control of navigation on certain rivers and of certain free ports, and the establishment of international railway tariffs and similar guarantees for landlocked states; admission of the smaller powers to proper representation in the councils of the league.

These aims of the League of Nations, it is conceded, cannot be accomplished in a day or a month or even a year. Each and every one of them, it is pointed out, must be a development. The point which the friends of the league are now making is that with the president of the United States probably the best friend the league has in the world, since he is largely responsible for the organization, a well man again, the United States will not stand in the way of giving the aims of the league a fair trial.

On both sides of the Atlantic ocean it is realized, so state department officials say, that the existing unrest throughout the world may make it more difficult to get the League of Nations in working order than would be the case were conditions normal everywhere.

RAILWAY PROBLEM DUE FOR SOLUTION

SENATE AND HOUSE WILL PASS CUMMINGS AND ESCH BILLS BEFORE VERY LONG.

COINCIDE IN MANY RESPECTS

Both Seek to Prevent Strikes—Former Provides for Creation of Federal Transportation Board, but This May Be Changed.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—Congress as a whole is about ready to tackle the railroad problem. In due time the senate will pass a bill which will bear the name of Senator Cummings of Iowa, chairman of the committee on interstate commerce, and the house will pass a bill which will bear the name of Representative Esch of Wisconsin, chairman of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce. These bills as they will go to the respective legislative branches will in some respects be identical, but there will be substantial differences which will have to be ironed out in conference.

It seems reasonably certain now that the principal difference will be that the senate bill will contain a provision for the creation of a transportation board which will take over the administrative functions of the interstate commerce commission and leave the commission the rate-making powers which it now has. The house bill in its present form does not contain any provision for the creation of a transportation board, and a majority of the members of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce have expressed themselves in favor of conferring on the interstate commerce commission full authority in the matter of the regulation of the railroads.

The senate bill prescribes a definite rule for rate making and makes provision for the distribution of excess earnings. The bill provides that the interstate commerce commission shall prescribe rates that will yield 5½ per cent on the aggregate property value of railroads in a given rate-making group. To this may be added one-half of 1 per cent for unproductive improvements. Should any road earn more than 6 per cent on the value of its property the excess earnings would be divided equally between the carrier earning the money and a contingent fund in the transportation board.

Both Provide Against Strikes.

Both bills as they will go from the committees to congress for consideration will contain provisions designed to prevent the transportation systems from being tied up by a nation-wide strike. The senate committee has voted to insert in its bill a provision making it unlawful for railroad employees to strike. The house committee has gone only so far as to provide for the creation of a tribunal which would have the final word in disputes between the employer and the employee. One of the matters still in controversy is as to whether legislation shall be attempted which will to any extent abridge the authority of the states over intrastate rates and the regulation of purely intrastate commerce.

Both bills in their present form contain provisions designed to stabilize the rate situation during the period immediately following the surrender of federal control. There is little doubt that the final bill will contain a provision that existing rates—interstate and intrastate—shall remain in effect until changed by either the interstate commerce commission or the state commissions. Financial assistance to the railroads in the way of government loans will, it is now believed, be provided to tide the roads over the reconstruction period and until the rate schedules have been so adjusted that the carriers will be able to take care of themselves.

With respect to consolidations of railroads, the senate or Cummings bill provides for compulsory consolidations of certain groups of roads at the end of seven years. The Esch or house bill provides for "permissive" consolidations.

More Government Control.

The final bill as passed will greatly enlarge the regulatory powers of the government over matters relating to car service, terminals, pooling of facilities, etc. If a transportation board is created those regulatory functions will be vested in it; if the interstate commerce commission remains as the sole regulatory body, bureaus and subdivisions will have to be created by it to take care of additional work.

It is practically certain that if a transportation board is not created the membership of the interstate commerce commission will be increased from nine to eleven or thirteen members. Congress is confronted with a somewhat widespread demand that the government shall surrender the railroads to their owners at the end of this calendar year. The railroad commissioners of the various states who met in annual convention in Indianapolis recently adopted a resolution asking that the transfer be made at the end of the year, and congress always gives consideration to a resolution with the states behind it in such an expressive way. But there are many obstacles in the way of disposing of the railroad legislation between now and January 1.

POSTAL EMPLOYEES TO GET MORE PAY

SCHEDULE OF INCREASES HAS BEEN DECIDED ON BY CONGRESS AT LAST.

OTHER WORKERS ENCOURAGED

Higher Salaries in All Branches of the Government Service Are Expected Before Long—Talk of Reducing Number of Clerks.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—Employees of the government are beginning to meet with success in their efforts to obtain better pay. The men and women employed in the postal establishment are the first to receive benefits. Congress has finally agreed to a new pay schedule that affects every class of employees in the postal service. The legislative body placed the following classes of employees in one group and then applied a pay schedule to the group: Postmasters at offices of the third class, assistant postmasters and clerks, including clerks at division headquarters of post office inspectors, special clerks, finance clerks, bookkeepers, printers, mechanics, skilled laborers, watchmen, messengers, laborers and other employees of offices of the first and second class; letter carriers in the city delivery service; employees in government-owned automobile service; supervisory officials, inspectors, railway postal clerks, including substitutes, superintendents, requisition fillers, packers and laborers.

To this group there is applied this schedule of pay: A person receiving not less than $1,000 nor more than $1,200, an increase of $200; a person receiving more than $1,200 and not more than $1,600, an increase of $150; a person receiving $1,600 and not more than $2,000, an increase of $125; a person receiving more than $2,000 and not more than $2,500, an increase of $100. In connection with this schedule there is a proviso that no third-class postmaster shall receive more than $2,000 a year. Carriers in the village delivery service receiving less than $1,000 a year get an increase of 20 per cent.

For Rural Letter Carriers.

The new schedule for rural letter carriers on daily routes is as follows: Eleven miles or less in length, an increase of $75 a year; over 11 miles and under 20 miles in length, an increase of $100 a year; over 20 miles and under 24 miles in length, an increase of $150 a year; 24 miles or over in length, an increase of $200 a year. For rural carriers on tri-weekly routes, the schedule of increases is as follows: Eleven miles or less in length, an increase of $37.50 a year; over 11 miles and under 20 miles in length, an increase of $50 a year; over 20 miles and under 24 miles in length, an increase of $75 a year; 24 miles or over in length, an increase of $100 a year.

All fourth-class postmasters under the legislation are to have a 15 per cent increase. Substitute employees in any branch of the service, except the rural delivery, are to receive 60 cents an hour in place of 40 cents an hour, which they now receive. The new law makes this increase retroactive. That is to say, it is to be effective as of July 1, 1919. The post office department is now making a computation as to how much additional money it will take to meet the new pay schedule. The back pay amounting to four months will in itself aggregate a large sum.

The success of the various classes of the postal employees in getting their new pay schedule through has encouraged employees in other branches along the same line. The new navy pay bill will soon be under way, and the army is getting ready to ask for an increase of 30 per cent over the present pay.

Other Branches to Follow.

Congress realizes that, having provided increased pay in one branch of the government service, it will probably have to do the same thing for every branch sooner or later. So far as the postal service is concerned, it became absolutely necessary to authorize the demand of better wages if the experienced employees were to be retained. During the last year many of them left the service because, as they asserted, they could not make both ends meet on the government pay. The same argument is being used by the officers and enlisted men of the army and by the men and women employed in the other executive departments.

There has arisen in connection with the problem of how much more pay the various classes of government employees ought to have, the question as to what is to be done about the excess number of employees in the departments here. When the United States entered the war in April, 1917, there were 35,500 clerks employed in the various branches of the government service here. When the armistice was signed, one year ago, this number had been increased to 104,800. The net increase during the last year has amounted to only 2,620. In some branches of the service thousands of employees have been released, but in other branches the number has been increased. At the present time the number employed in the department of commerce is being increased daily through the formation of a force to take the census next year.

AMUSEMENTS

At the Best Tonight and Tomorrow "Upstairs and Down" a comedy-drama with pep, dash and thrills that will entertain and delight any moving picture audience in the country, will be seen today and tomorrow when Seiznick pictures presents the lovely and vivacious young star, Olive Thomas, at the Best theatre.

Olive Thomas as Alice Chesterton, gives a delightful characterization of the "baby vamp" who was happiest when she was entangled in a web of intrigue and trouble. This adorable little mischief-maker is engaged to Tom Carey, but to her that is only an ordinary incident in the wheel of life. At a large house party in Long Island she "vamps" Terry O'Keefe, an Irish boy, with a captivating smile and a bewitching brogue. He is the means of furnishing her with one of her many "happiest" moments. She follows him to the city and when later he really falls in love with Alice's sister, Betty, and asks her to marry him, Alice says that Terry has compromised her and must marry her. Eventually, things straighten themselves out, to the satisfaction of all concerned.

New Park Theatre Tonight

If you want to see the unconditional surrender of a certain man-haters' club and the sensational capture of its leader and members by Cupid and his agents, see Marguerite Clark, dainty little Paramount star, and the supporting cast in her new picture, "Girls" which will be shown at the New Park theatre tonight.

Pamela Gordon, the role played by the star, is a confirmed man-hater. In fact her views on the subject are so confirmed that she seeks to convert other girls to her principles, and has formed a man-haters' club consisting of herself and two other girls, her room-mates.

But one by one her converts feel the pleasant sting of Cupid's darts and fall out of the ranks, leaving the little heroine of the story alone to wage her warfare on love and man. But her battle is a hard one and the way she is finally bested and forced to capitulate to Commander-in-chief Cupid and his opposing forces, consisting of a young and ardent sweetheart named Edgar Hoyt, is said to be one of the most delightful comedy-romances ever seen on the screen.

FLAT ROOFS FOR HOT LANDS

American Indian Desert Dwellers Knew Secret of Home Building We Seem to Have Forgotten.

We dwell with Colonel Roosevelt upon the historic and cultural value of the ancient Indian towns of Arizona which, had they been in Europe, would doubtless have been preserved unchanged as living records of successful communal forms of government, whose social and ceremonial life offered a study of the greatest possible importance to our knowledge of mankind as a whole. And we asked: What right have we in "free America" to stretch forth an autocratic hand arbitrarily to change the village life of this ancient and peaceful folk?

We spoke of the characteristic architecture of the pueblos, by many centuries the oldest inhabited towns in America, whose flat-roofed, terraced houses are not only in utter harmony with natural surroundings, but constitute, from a practical standpoint, the most successful type of building for desert cities. High above the sands, the flat roof forms a porch for the open-air Indian, whereon at certain seasons he works, rests, receives his guests, eats, and sleeps.

In North Africa, in Spain, in Asia Minor, where climate conditions are similar to those in Hopi Land, the same flat roof may be found. But we think we know better! In a land of burning sun, the slanting, hot, tin roofs of the government dwellings clinging in an inherited architecture of rain-soaked central Europe, cut their incongruous outline against a rainless sky, impotent in their longing to shed water! And the sun streamlines into their big European windows, inviting myriads of flies, and forming a contrast indeed to the shadowed cool of the thick-walled Indian houses, whose open fireplaces insured at all seasons wholesome ventilation, in spite of high, narrow windows.

And yet the white man's impractical transplanted house, brought from far other climes, is urged upon the Indians as "civilized." With no eye to either beauty or fitness, our arbitrary standards (rarely, in the Indians' case, put to the test of experimentation first) are forced upon a people who through centuries of experience have learned how to conquer conditions foreign to us. Improvements there might certainly be in the Indian's manner of life, but why not along those lines which nature has taught as most appropriate?—Nathalie Curtis, in the Outlook.

At the close of the Moose regular meeting on Thursday, Nov. 20th, which was well attended owing to a "mysterious special meeting notice" in the Dispatch, the Brainerd Moose were surprised to find the ante-room crowded with ladies.

The men seemed to think they had come to make sure hubby did not lose the way home, until some one spied a table piled high with eats.

Upon investigation it was found that the ladies had had a "Moose" meeting of their own and elected to surprise their "protectors."

Dancing and cards were indulged in until the midnight hour when all repaired to the dining room where a delicious luncheon was served, after which there was more dancing. At 1 o'clock all started home, voting the ladies perfect hostesses.

NO BAN PUT ON CIDER

Provided "Kick" is Natural and Not Produced by Sugar

Cider, whether sweet or hard, does not come within the prohibitions of the act of November 21, 1918, according to a treasury decision just received by E. J. Lynch, collector of internal revenue for Minnesota.

The manufacture or sale of pure cider is permissible, providing that nothing has been added to increase the alcoholic content. The addition of sugar to cider would constitute a violation of the law. After January 16 cider may only be manufactured and sold when the alcoholic content is under one-half of 1 per cent.

BIG RICE LAKE NOT TO BE DRAINED

Judge W. S. McGlenahan of District Court So Decides in Ditch Hear-

STATE GAME FISH COMMISSION

Represented at the Hearing, Two Brainerd Attorneys, Crookston and St. Paul in Case

Duluth and Superior hunters and others of that section of the state and central Minnesota, together with many sportsmen's clubs, are jubilant over the decision of Judge W. S. McGlenahan of Brainerd, who in a district court hearing at Aitkin denied the application to drain Big Rice Lake near Aitkin, famous for its rice beds, duck grounds, etc.

As one old-timer remarked, the Chippewa Indians in 1855 dried up the country so far as alcohol is concerned and now a lot of these ditch petitioners wait to dry up the water that is left, and it's time to apply the law of self-preservation.

In behalf of the petitioners for the drainage project were Attorney Watts of Crookston and John R. Donahue of St. Paul. Opposing them were Assistant Attorney General Smith appearing for the State Game and Fish Commission, M. E. Ryan of Brainerd for certain defendants and F. E. Ebner of Brainerd for others.

London, Nov. 20—One hundred and fifteen million gallons of whisky, besides a quantity of other spirits, in bond in Great Britain, were released from war-time restrictions yesterday, and may be distributed to all comers who can persuade the dealers to sell.

Announcement of the removal of the restrictions, which was made without warning in the House of Commons by the food controller on Tuesday, came as a surprise to the members, who greeted it with loud cheers.

The liquor trade was equally surprised and was besieged by the well-to-do among the public as soon as the to-do among the public as soon as the unexpected news spread.

RED CROSS PLANS FOR RURAL WORK

SUCCESS OF ROLL CALL GIVES IT FUNDS FOR THE SMALL TOWN AND COUNTRY.

THINGS TO BE UNDERTAKEN

Lectures, Laboratories and Co-operation With Various Kinds of Community Service—Prof. E. L. Morgan Is the Director of This Bureau.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.
Washington.—The Red Cross roll call just completed was a success. With such a generous response to its appeal for members and money the organization will now be able to go forward with the small town and rural work it has planned. It will stand ready to co-operate helpfully wherever and whenever its services are desired. Here are some of the things that civilian relief directors within divisions may undertake, the national organization says:

1. Get a few lectures in every training institute to show the principle and methods of the development of the small town.

2. Create a small-town laboratory near every training institute center, where prospective Red Cross workers can get experience in doing work in a small community.

3. Give assistance and advice to field workers and others who have not had the opportunity to know the small town and solve its problems.

4. Help develop chapter courses so they will result in community action.

5. Conduct community studies which may be made the basis of peace-time program work.

6. Help the Red Cross chapter to get together with other agencies in the county for an exchange of plans and projects and a thorough-going survey of the county which will show problems that need to be gotten at.

7. Help the division office to get together with the organizations, boards and institutions of the various states in the division, interested in the smaller communities, for an exchange of plans and projects and a consideration of ways and means of co-operative work.

8. Create friendly contacts with other agencies working in the same field by attending such meetings as farmers' week at the agricultural colleges, the state grange, state teachers' associations, ministers' associations, state health conferences, state meetings of the farm bureau agents and others.

Not Like Work in the Cities.
The national headquarters is pointing out that conditions "will be found very different from those of the city, due chiefly to the smallness of the community and the influence of agriculture and small-town conditions and customs upon the people, and the manner in which they will respond to certain kinds of Red Cross work."

There are a number of agencies already working in this field, such as the extension departments of the state universities and the agricultural colleges, the farm bureau movement, the Grange, the rural Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., the Society of Equity and a number of child welfare societies. They have developed gradually, and the people have followed them confidently because their leaders were persons who knew and appreciated small-town and country life at its full worth, and developed the technique of their work on the basis of small-town possibilities.

"The Red Cross must be so equipped that it can approach this small town and rural field in a straightforward, intelligent manner," asserts national headquarters. "We should get tangible worth-while results and at the same time develop in the people a sense of local interest and responsibility without vitiating the fine spirit of loyalty that now exists among them toward the Red Cross as a movement. Some time ago we felt that a start should be made, and provided, in the department of civilian relief here at headquarters for a bureau of rural organization, with Prof. E. L. Morgan of the extension service of the Massachusetts agricultural college as director."

Prof. E. L. Morgan is Director.

Professor Morgan was brought up on a farm in the middle west and lived also in the south, is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, a man of mature judgment and has a distinct record of achievement. He has just returned from visiting a number of the divisions, and is of the opinion that the Red Cross will experience little difficulty in extending its work in the towns of 5,000 and under, provided the methods are adapted to the possibilities of these localities, and the program worked out with the people after a careful study of local conditions which will show actual work that needs to be done. He advises that the division staffs be equipped so as to give definite attention to the field of work that is associated with the localities of 5,000 and under.

In previous policy statements issued to division managers emphasis has been placed upon the fact that much of our peace-time work will be done in the smaller cities and rural counties, where the influence of country conditions very largely prevails. Sixty per cent of the people in the United States live in communities under 8,000.

Catarthal Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarthal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarthal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarthal, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood in the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All druggists. 75c. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

SPECIAL SESSION NEARING ITS END

MUCH ACCOMPLISHED DESPITE SENATE'S LONG FIGHT OVER THE PEACE TREATY.

SOME BIG THINGS GO OVER

Chief Problems for Congress to Solve in Regular Session Are Return of Railways and Army and Merchant Marine Policies.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—This special session of congress which began last May is drawing to an end. Under the Constitution the regular long session will open Monday, December 1. A long session may continue one year without a break and the probability is that there will be work for congress throughout the calendar year 1920. All the legislation begun during this special session and unfinished at its close will still be alive when the new session comes on. It is foreseen that a great deal of unfinished business will go over to the regular session. This is due largely to the fact that the senate since it received the treaty of peace with Germany on the 10th of last July has not found much time for business that did not relate to the treaty. The hope is being very generally expressed both in the senate and in the house that the senate will dispose of the treaty before this session comes to an end, and thus open the way for the consideration of the many domestic questions that are listed on the legislative calendar.

In spite of the fact that foreign affairs have absorbed the attention of the senate almost exclusively during the present session, some important legislative action has been concluded. When the session came together the legislative leaders promised action on these questions without delay: The constitutional amendment extending the right of suffrage to women and legislation returning the telegraph, telephone and cable lines to their owners. The constitutional amendment was put through the two houses within 15 days after the session opened and the telegraph, telephone and cable lines were turned back to their owners under an act approved July 11.

Other Important Legislation.

The two houses have also concurred in amendments to the wartime food control law designed to strengthen the arm of the government in dealing with the high cost of living. Legislation providing more liberal provisions for the vocational training and rehabilitation of wounded soldiers and making liberal appropriations for that work has also been completed, and there has been passed a comprehensive bill amending the war risk act and liberalizing its provisions in regard to soldiers' insurance and compensation for wounds and injuries.

It was the failure of the outgoing congress to pass all the appropriation bills prior to March 4 this year that made it necessary for the president to call this special session as early as May. The seven appropriation bills which had failed to pass received prompt consideration. All were out of the way before the end of the fiscal year which began July 1. The legislators have taken to themselves credit for having reduced the total appropriations originally called for by these seven bills by $900,000,000.

The house of representatives has passed a large number of bills during the session which are awaiting action by the senate. Among them are the following: Regulating the cold storage of foodstuffs, a water power bill making available the water power of the country under government regulation, repealing the taxes on soft drinks, soda water and ice cream, six tariff bills relating to the duty on coal tar dyes, tungsten, lead, zinc ores, pearl buttons, magnesite, and several other articles that were in need of more protection, and a bill providing for a budget system for the federal government.

Big Problems for Regular Session.

Three problems of unusual importance will have to receive consideration at the regular session: The conditions under which the railroads shall be returned to their owners, the formulation of a permanent military policy for the government, and the adoption of a merchant marine policy or program. These questions will be taken up in the order in which they are mentioned. The house of representatives still hopes to be able to pass the railroad return bill before the end of this session but the senate will not be able to do this and will probably not take up the matter at all until the regular session. It is now reasonably certain that railroad legislation will not be completed before the end of the year and that the railroads cannot be returned before the spring or summer of 1920.

It is to be the policy of the congressional leaders to get all the pressing legislation out of the way before the political convention season comes on next year. The party in control of congress will naturally be desirous of being in position to point to a good legislative record when it appears in convention. Apparently the tariff is not to be touched until after war conditions settle back to some where near normal.

The time has come, it seems, when the country can count on congress being in session almost continuously

Taking the Chase Out Of Purchase

Advertising benefits the man who buys as well as the man who sells. It is part of the Golden Rule of Business and it works both ways.

Don't miss the advertisements in this newspaper. Many of them are interesting just because of their news and educational value alone.

But more than that:—Advertisements take the chase out of purchase and make every penny do its full duty.

This last statement is one particularly to be remembered when common-sense economy is not only a national duty, but an individual necessity.
